WHAT DO YOU DO ON A DAY-TO-DAY BASIS?

I serve as the administrative officer and chief curator of Andalusia-the Home of Flannery O'Connor, Georgia's Old Governor's Mansion, and the Sallie Ellis Davis House. I am responsible for public relations, policy making, planning, staffing, revenue generation, fundraising, and directing/coordinating our educational programming at the museums.

DO YOU HAVE ADVICE FOR STUDENTS?

“During your collegiate years, don’t be afraid to try new things or follow your passions. I found my current career out of simple curiosity related to museum work while I was an undergraduate student. You never know where a path will lead you and I am fortunate to have found something I truly love to do.”
