WHAT DO YOU DO ON A DAY-TO-DAY BASIS?

I work for an association management company and oversee multiple trade, medical, and educational associations including the Georgia Fruit & Vegetable Growers Association, and the American Association of Clinical Anatomists. My client associations are international, national, and state-based groups and our company handles all the day-to-day business including executive board and committee management, financial oversight, conference planning, membership services, and any programs offered through them. I love my job because each group is different and my role with each group varies so every day is different.

DO YOU HAVE ADVICE FOR STUDENTS?

"Be open to opportunity! Even if an internship isn't quite what you want to do, the people you meet will open doors and options you may have never thought about. It's all about relationships."
