Note: The University System of Georgia has announced that the three most selective public universities in the state of Georgia will require standardized test scores for fall 2025 admission for first-year students. As one of the top three most selective public universities in the state, Georgia College & State University will require the SAT or ACT for admissions for fall 2025. Keep in mind, GCSU employs a holistic admissions review process that takes into account a variety of factors such as GPA, difficulty of courses taken in high school, your essay, résumé, and letters of recommendation. In addition, you may submit self-reported test scores for initial admissions review. Self-reported test scores are manually input into your college application via your GCSU admissions portal or the Common Application. This function is intended to expedite the process of completing your Georgia College & State University application and it should only be used if you have already taken the SAT or ACT. Self-reported scores should be an accurate reflection of your previous SAT or ACT scores; you should not report anticipated future SAT or ACT scores nor should you report PSAT scores. If you are admitted using self-reported scores and choose to enroll at Georgia College & State University, you must submit your official score report by April 1, 2025. Discrepancies between your official score report and your self-reported scores may result in your admissions offer being rescinded. Georgia College & State University aims to expedite the application completion process.

Tuition Classification Information

University System of Georgia students are responsible for registering under the proper tuition classification. In general, classification of in-state status for tuition purposes requires an individual to have established domicile in Georgia for a minimum of 12 consecutive months immediately preceding the first day of classes for the term in which the student plans to enroll.

Domicile is defined as a person's present, permanent home where the individual intends to stay indefinitely and to which the individual returns following periods of temporary absence. Temporary residence does not constitute the establishment of one's domicile.

Residence is defined as the state and country where an individual currently lives. An individual may reside in Georgia without having established domicile in the state. See above definition of domicile.
