

Dr. Angela Queen

Angela Queen is a GCSU multi-alumni, earning a bachelor's degree in psychology in 1995, a BSN in 1996, and a MSN-FNP from Georgia College in 2000. She completed her DNP in May 2022, focusing her research on APRNs' knowledge of and willingness to treat Opioid Use Disorder. She had been practicing full-time as a nurse practitioner in an outpatient private practice until joining GCSU faculty in August 2019. In 2022, she established and is currently the faculty advisor/senior editor for a student-lead newsletter within the school of nursing called "The Scrub". In 2023, she was the recipient of the COHS Excellence in Teaching Award. She continues to practice part-time as a nurse practitioner for a local hospice and as an expert peer reviewer for the Georgia Board of Nursing as her schedule allows. She has a broad range of experience in the clinical setting, including oncology, family practice, preventive and alternative medicine, palliative care, mental health, and women's health, including obstetrics, bariatrics, and cardiology. She loves the geriatric population and often volunteers at local nursing homes. She is also a personal trainer focusing on physical and mental health prevention. She loves traveling, hiking, and other outdoor activities in her spare time and is passionate about animal rescue. She has five rescue dogs- Shine, Lady, Trooper & Gypsy Rose, and Huckleberry, and three rescue kitties- Trixie, Diddle, & Roo. She is a newlywed, marrying her high school sweetheart on New Year's Eve 2022. Dr. Queen is currently in the Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner program and is expected to graduate in May 2025.
